📊 What you're actually being scored on

Each elective is marked independently out of 500:

General English & GK	100 marks	← shared across all three
MCQ (100 Q × 2)	200 marks	← 40% of the total!
Descriptive Paper-I	100 marks
Descriptive Paper-II	100 marks
TOTAL per elective	500 marks

Across three electives you sit 10 papers totalling 1,600 marks of examination.

Three facts that should drive everything you do

1. The MCQ is worth 200 — double any descriptive paper. It is the single biggest scoring block and the easiest to prepare for. Most candidates over-invest in descriptive writing and under-invest here. Don't.
2. Negative marking is 1/3 of 2 marks = –0.667 per wrong answer. A blind guess on a 4-option question has expected value $(0.25 \times 2) - (0.75 \times 0.667) = 0$ — exactly break-even. So: guess only when you can eliminate at least one option. One eliminated option makes guessing clearly positive. Pure blind guessing is a waste.
3. The descriptive papers give you choice. Section A offers 10 questions and you answer 8. Section B offers 5, you answer 3. Section C offers 4, you answer 2.

You can drop your two weakest topics in every single section and still score 100%.

This means you do not need perfect syllabus coverage — you need solid coverage of about 70% of it. Plan accordingly.

Exam-day logistics checklist

- [] Download and print the admit card as soon as NPSC releases it
- [] Confirm your General paper venue against your roll number (table above)
- [] Confirm NPSC Exam Hall, Kohima location and travel time for the 7 technical papers
- [] Note the two double-header days: 30 Sep and 12 Oct (descriptive 9–12, then MCQ 1–3) and 13 Oct (descriptive 9–12, then MCQ 1–3). Pack food and water — these are long days.
- [] Black/blue ball pens (several), HB pencils + eraser for OMR, permitted ID
- [] Check NPSC's instructions on whether a non-programmable calculator is permitted
- [] Re-check the routine and any corrigendum on npsc.nagaland.gov.in in the week before — NPSC has already issued three corrigenda to this advertisement (10, 15 and 17 July 2026), so dates can move.
